13. Proposed School Attendance Boundary maps presentation by Woolpert, which will constitute attendance boundary changes for all comprehensive Elementary and Secondary Schools within the Murrieta Valley Unified School District.

Deputy Superintendent Darren Daniel, together with District consultant Andrew Bishop from Woolpert, presented proposed school attendance boundary maps. These maps were created with input from a committee of 20 parents and at least one representative from each school. The new district boundaries for the 2025/26 school year will only affect newly enrolled students, who will attend new schools based on these boundaries. Starting in the 2027/28 school year, existing elementary students will move to middle schools according to the new boundaries. They discussed grandfathering practices to keep older and younger siblings together, especially for interdistrict transfers. They also explained the district's aim to balance school capacities and ensure equitable experiences across all schools. The proposal takes into account the impact of declining enrollment and the need for facility adjustments. The district will continue to prioritize special education students and manage transfer requests based on grade level and program availability. The community survey results showed that option 1 was the most preferred map.

Board Trustees engaged in conversation, asking staff clarifying questions and sharing concerns about increased transportation costs, the validity of enrollment projections and the desire to keep elementary schools under 1,000 students. They also agreed not to make any changes to the current high school boundaries.
